RODEY LAW FIRM
ENVIRONMENT AND NATURAL RESOURCES GROUP

The Environment and Natural Resources Group of the Rodey Law Firm provides environmental regulatory information and legal representation for clients throughout New Mexico and the southwestern United States. The aggregate experience of the attorneys in the Environment and Natural Resources Section encompasses virtually every aspect of environmental law and its regulatory impact, from advising clients on environmental concerns associated with land acquisition and property development to waste management, site remediation and environmental liability.

To facilitate the availability of current information regarding state environmental laws and regulations applicable in New Mexico, attorneys in the Environment and Natural Resources Group of the Rodey Law Firm author the New Mexico Environmental Law Handbook, now in its 6th Edition. The Environmental Law Handbook provides specific information on state environmental statutes and regulations including those governing air emissions, water quality, solid and hazardous wastes management, underground storage tanks, mining and oil and gas operations, radioactive materials, emergency planning, pesticides control, endangered species, and environmental management by area Native American Tribes and Pueblos.

If you would like more information about the Environment and Natural Resources Group, call information at 765-5900. If you have a specific environmental question or concern, call any of the firm's environmental attorneys whose practice areas and direct dial phone numbers are listed below.
